

COVID 2022 Cancellations- special conditions

These cancellation conditions are applicable specifically to the current COVID 19 epidemic which may affect in one way or another the delivery of services reserved by the client.

These conditions are valid only for the 2023 winter season (January, February, March).

The broad principle is that “Drive & Travel” is not substituting in any way Assurever cancellation insurance, but rather is complementing completely free of charge particular situations associated with conditions of travel, where clients “cannot reasonably reach the destination where the service is being provided” (see the detailed definitions at the foot of this document).

Detail of the cancellation conditions covered by Drive and Travel in case (4) flight cancellation

4.1 Flight ticket(s) purchased through Drive & Travel

-If one of the outward flight(s) purchased through Drive and Travel is delayed or cancelled by the airline company (whatever the reason) such that the client or guests cannot reach Swedish Lapland during the day, and that such cancellation(s) occurs on the day of departure or even before: Drive & Travel will provide without cost to the client an alternative travel solution which will enable him or guests to reach Swedish Lapland before midnight on the agreed day, even if that involves a change of final destination airport (Luleå, Skelleftea, Arvidsjaur) assuming no client objection. Any client refusal implies a de facto cancellation of his own making, with subsequent application of the cancellation penalties as defined in the special conditions of sale. If Drive and Travel is not able to supply an alternative solution as described above, the cancellation will not be considered as a one of the client's own making, and as a result 80% of the services cost will be immediately reimbursed to the client, and the 20% credited to his benefit for services to be rendered during winter 2024, accepting that a change of beneficiary will not be possible.

- For the return journey, in the case of flights delayed or cancelled by the airline company, new flight tickets will be supplied by Drive and Travel- with however a possible overnight stop- at Drive and Travel's expense, and assuming no client objection. Any client refusal implies a de facto cancellation of his own making, with subsequent application of the cancellation penalties as defined in the special conditions of sale. If Drive and Travel is not able to supply an alternative solution as described above, the cancellation will not be considered as a one of the client's own making, and as a result 80% of the services cost will be immediately reimbursed to the client, and the 20% credited to his benefit for services to be rendered during winter 2024, accepting that a change of beneficiary will not be possible.

4.2 Flight tickets purchased through another travel agent:

- If one of the outward flight(s) not purchased through Drive and Travel is delayed by the airline company (for whatever reason), such that the client or guests cannot reach Swedish Lapland during the day, and that such cancellation(s) occurs on the day of departure or even before: Drive & Travel will provide the client without cost immediate logistical support in finding and reserving an alternative travel solution which will allow the client or guests to reach Swedish Lapland before midnight on the agreed day, even if that involves a change of final destination airport (Luleå, Skelleftea, Arvidsjaur) assuming no client objection. The costs of any new flight tickets will be borne by the client, who so undertakes. Any client refusal implies a de facto cancellation of his own making, with subsequent application of the cancellation penalties as defined in the special conditions of sale. If Drive and Travel is not able to supply an alternative solution as described above, the cancellation will not be considered as a one of the client's own making, and subsequently 80% of the services cost will be immediately reimbursed to the client, and the 20% credited to his benefit for services to be rendered during winter 2024, accepting that a change of beneficiary will not be possible.
